Joshua Fredenburg is a Nationally Recognized Speaker, Author of Five books, Tedx Speaker, Television Guest Expert, and President of the ‘Award-Winning’ Circle of Change Leadership Conference. For the past twelve years, Joshua has not only served as a guest speaker in 44 different states across the nation, but he has transformed the lives of thousands of people as a keynote speaker, workshop presenter, trainer, and facilitator.

In addition to a successful speaking career, Joshua has been nominated as one of the Top 40 leaders under 40 in South Florida this past year, he received an award from the Urban League Young Professionals of Los Angeles for work in developing the next generation of leaders, and his national leadership conference was recognized by the NASPA (Student Affair Professionals in Higher Education) Student Leadership Programs Knowledge Community as the “Top Student Leadership Development Program in 2015.” He has also appeared as a television guest on BET, the Wayne Brady Show, the KTLA Morning Show in Los Angeles, the Daily Buzz National Morning Show, K-CAL 9 News in Los Angeles, and the CBS News in San Francisco to name a few.

All of Joshua’s work is done with a heart of humility, love, integrity, excellence, exceptional character, and a strong desire to provide emerging and seasoned leaders with a life changing experience!

What sets apart history’s nameless leaders from the likes of Oprah Winfrey, Steve Jobs, Michael Jordan, Nelson Mandela, Thomas Edison, Abraham Lincoln, Susan B. Anthony, and Walt Disney? It is their ability to be resilient. Each of these great leaders became unstoppable in their area of expertise because they learned how to overcome adversity and conquer every challenge that stood between them and their desired purpose as a leader.

In this incredibly inspirational and powerful leadership discussion on resiliency, Joshua Fredenburg not only helps emerging and seasoned leaders develop a solid working definition of resilient leadership, but he provides them with the foundational principles of resilient leadership that enable leaders to adapt, persevere, bounce back, overcome any negative situation, circumstance, or challenge, and become unstoppable!
