

2017 Undergraduate Leadership Conference

Saturday, February 25

10:00am - 5:00pm

UCD ARC
Conference Center

#ucdleadstheaway

CONFERENCE MISSION

This year's conference theme is Level Up. All leaders experience moments of capping out and feeling as if they have plateaued. Learning how to adjust to new people and opportunities can maximize the need to expand our capacity and, at times, recognize that we many need to take a few steps back before we can move on. Our theme of Level Up is designed to help conference participants rise to the challenge of taking their leadership to the next level that is right for them.

Through a variety of interactive workshops and large group activities, we aim to help students:

- 1) Level up their personal leadership
- 2) Engage with others on a new level
- 3) Apply leadership to different contexts

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

Throughout the day, challenge yourself to think creatively about leadership as a whole. Here are some guiding questions to consider as you attend workshops, listen to speakers, and meet other participants.

What does "Leveling Up" your personal leadership look like?

In what ways would you like to elevate the groups or teams you are a part of to the next level?

In what contexts do you plan to use the leadership skills you've learned today?

WHAT IS LEADERSHIP?

Leadership is much more than title and position, telling others what to do, or having authority and power. Leadership is about having purpose, both as an individual and as a group, to intentionally make a positive difference. Leadership can only occur when each of the following components are fully functioning together. (See diagram to right).

To help students explore all three components of this leadership model, workshops for the 2017 Aggies Leading the Way! conference will explore topics related to "Self" in Session 1, "Others" in Session 2, and "Context" in Session 3.

What is Leadership Model adapted from
Shankman, M. L. & Allen, S. L. (2008) Emotionally Intelligent Leadership

These three essential components merge to form a connection that helps guide both formal and informal leaders on their journey to create change. The circular figures represent the continuous process of growth, learning and the practice of leadership.

CONFERENCE AGENDA

Saturday February 25, 2017
UC Davis ARC Conference Center

| | |
|-------------------|---|
| 10:00AM - 10:30AM | CONFERENCE REGISTRATION AND CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST Conference Center Lobby |
| 10:30AM - 11:10AM | CONFERENCE WELCOME Christie Navarro, Director - Center for Leadership Learning Ballroom A KEYNOTE ADDRESS Ashley Good, Founder and CEO - Fail Forward Ballroom A |
| 11:15AM - 12:30PM | WORKSHOPS - SESSION 1 Ballrooms and Meeting Rooms |
| 12:30PM - 1:20PM | LUNCH BREAK AND NETWORKING Ballroom A and Courtyard |
| 1:30PM - 2:45PM | WORKSHOPS - SESSION 2 Ballrooms and Meeting Rooms |
| 2:50PM - 4:05PM | WORKSHOPS - SESSION 3 Ballrooms and Meeting Rooms |
| 4:10PM - 4:40PM | CLOSING PLENARY Ashley Good, Founder and CEO - Fail Forward Ballroom A |
| 4:40PM - 5:00PM | CLOSING REMARKS AND EVALUATION Christie Navarro, Director - Center for Leadership Learning Ballroom A RAFFLE PRIZES AND CONFERENCE T-SHIRTS CLL Student Staff Ballroom A |

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Meet your keynote speaker, Ashley Good! As the founder of Fail Forward, Ashley believes that failing well is a critical skill on the journey to success. She is a popular Canadian speaker who provides workshops, consultations, and events to explore how failure can actually be beneficial to level up in your leadership process. She states on her website that failure can be a “learning tool and a culture driver to support and foster innovation.” Ashley has even developed a process for annual failure reporting, which organizations like Engineers without Borders Canada use to address and learn from their missteps each year.

Ashley firmly believes that talking about failure is a key part of achieving your goals. Leadership almost always entails failing, sometimes repeatedly, before achieving what you want. In order to level up, you often need to fail first. When situations demand that you take your leadership to the next level, it's important to learn how failure can help you in the leadership process. In addition to Ashley being our keynote speaker, she will also be hosting a workshop and closing the 2017 Undergraduate Leadership Conference. Get ready for a great day with this engaging and inspiring speaker!

KEYNOTE ADDRESS

Courage to Try, Resilience to Fail

Taking leadership to the next level requires risk and trying something new. Sometimes, leaders fail in their attempt. The opening conference keynote focuses on shifting our perceptions of failure and uncovering the importance of challenging ourselves by illustrating the links between failure, learning and innovation, and actions and mindsets to foster smart risk taking. As a conference participant, you will experience a call to action – a kind of homework for the day – by doing something that makes you uncomfortable, trying something that frightens you, or is at the edge of your capacity. Some examples of how to challenge yourself throughout the day are:

- Speak up and share a question or idea
- Say “I don’t know” or “I don’t understand” instead of going along with the conversation
- Ask a peer for feedback
- Share a story of failure or acknowledge a weakness
- Commit to stepping up and doing something truly challenging where success isn’t guaranteed
- Support and encourage someone else who has failed to try again more wisely
- Any other action that is uncomfortable, scary or at the edge of your capacities

CLOSING PLENARY

Next Steps to Level Up

Preparing to level up our leadership can seem daunting and, at times, frightening. When committing to taking risks, we need to destigmatize failure and seek what we can learn and how to adapt. The conference’s closing plenary will focus on building a safe space to discuss failures openly and maximize the learning we gain from them. As a conference participant, you will learn how to turn the experience of failure on its head and walk away with tangible skills, insights, and actions that help you respond to failure well.

CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS | SESSION 1 | 11:15 - 12:30

Leggo Diversity!

Maria Bundang & Deborah Kagan

Ballroom A

Different colored LEGOs would represent many different salient identities that would include topics on education, sexuality, gender, spirituality, ethnicity, and many more. This will allow for participants to be able to build something that is meaningful to them through everyday objects such as LEGOs, let people interact with the material, and enable people to see their intersectionality within their identities. Through this workshop, people should come to the conclusion that others are composed of various identities that may not always be apparent.

Let's Get Down to the Nitty Gritty

Zach McLaughlin & Dillan Christensen

Ballroom B

Inspired by the Escape Room phenomenon, this presentation will challenge participants to think on their feet, work together in teams, struggle, and their success will all depend on one thing: GRIT. Grit is a multi-faceted topic whose many aspects work together to create a powerful drive that individuals use to pursue success and their long term goals. In this workshop, we will talk about grit, what aspects make up grit, and how we can incorporate some tips and tricks into our lives that will help us boost our success in the pursuit of our long term goals. So come enjoy a challenging, exciting workshop that will put your grit to the test!

The Happiness Advantage: Creating Lasting Positive Change

Odisea Macias

Meeting Room 1

This workshop is designed for participants who want to learn new self-growth techniques. Participants will be introduced to positive psychology and will learn how doing a simple two-minute exercise can help change their perspectives and the way in which they view their world. We will also discuss success and its relation to happiness and how manipulating this equation can lead to an increase in your intelligence, creativity and energy levels.

You're Going to Hear Me Roar: Understanding & Navigating Your Quiet Leadership Style

Jaime Allen & Leah Galasso

Meeting Room 2

Do you prefer listening to others rather than speaking up in large groups? Favor working on your own to working in teams? Value innovating and creating ideas over time rather than diving right into a solution? If you answered "yes" to any of these questions you just might be a Quiet Leader. In a world that considers "good leaders" to be energetic, outgoing, charismatic, and bold, this workshop will examine the intricacies and strengths of leaders who are quiet, humble, modest, or reserved. Through small group discussions, journaling, and reflecting, participants will leave the workshop with a better understanding of how to be more confident in their unique leadership style.

LeaderSort

Kristopher Disharoon

Meeting Room 3

Want to gain a better awareness of which Leadership House you truly belong in? Well, come let the Sorting Hat tell you where you belong! In this workshop, you will go through the leader sorting process by gaining a better understanding of your personal leadership attributes and others that share those attributes. You will then create your House's own Leadership Shield that reflect your group's common attributes and your group will be able to share them with other Houses. Through sharing you will learn best practices on how to work with others that have different leadership perspectives.

CONFERENCE WORKSHOPS | SESSION 2 | 1:30 - 2:45

Leading Your Team to the Next Level!

Marlene Piceno, Caitrin Vadnais, Ruby Victoria & Nicole Fernandez

Ballroom A

Just got assigned a group project or became part of a new team and need tips on how to be most successful? Group relationships are the fundamentals to making teamwork a positive experience. Our workshop focuses on how to navigate the various stages of team building and mastering the art of working with others. You will learn the basics of team bonding in order to create the most effective teamwork practices to help in your future endeavors.

Examining Failure and Fear: What's Stopping You?

Ashley Good

Ballroom B

This session is designed to help students redefine failure by understanding and expanding their own perceptions and fear of failing. Participants will be guided in examining reasons for not taking risks, tapping into their more courageous natures, and identifying avenues where they can move forward through fear.

Growing Your Network

Jenine S. Jenkins

Meeting Room 1

Statistics show that almost 60% of available positions are in the 'Hidden Job Market' and can only be accessed if you know the right people. Additionally, networking is a powerful tool once working in an organization to help you manage your career and ultimately get to the top! This workshop is all about the various steps to take in order to start and grow your network.

Tactics on How to Be a Conscious Leader

Annie Chen, Michelle Rivera, Funke Aderonmu, Maureen Njuguna & Marlene Amador

Meeting Room 2

This workshop engages students to become more conscious leaders through tackling the concept of privilege. In unpacking the system of privilege - the special rights and advantages granted to certain groups based on age, disability, sexual orientation, gender, race/ethnicity, religion, and social class - students will learn how to identify manifestations of privilege in everyday settings and be equipped with tactics to address it. In doing so, students will enhance their efficacy as leaders, become more aware of their own identity, and be more conscious of how others identify in various environments.

Dialogue: Sharing Experiences and Bridging Divides

Tessa Oates

Meeting Room 3

This workshop will provide an introduction to the concept of Dialogue. It will include topics such as how Dialogue differs from other forms of communication such as Discussion and Debate and how and when to create a space for Dialogue. Additionally, we will specifically be focusing on the importance of strengthening dialogue skills such as active listening, sharing personal experiences instead of facts, and determining intent versus impact. Lastly, we will explore how the process of dialoguing can help build trust, respect, and empathy among individuals with varying perspectives. Exploring the differences between Dialogue, Debate, and Discussion will assist leaders to communicate as effectively as possible as they develop their leadership skills.

Transferable Skills of Participating in an Organization

Kristin Dees

Ballroom A

Do you know how to speak or articulate how your experience outside the classroom will help you in your future path? Do you know what employers or graduate schools are looking for when interviewing regardless of academic discipline? Come learn how to map out your experiences outside of the classroom to transferable skills needed for internships, job interviews, and graduate school interviews.

From Undecided to Open-Minded: Reframing Uncertainty as Opportunity

Kelli Sholer

Ballroom B

Recent studies have shown that most people will change jobs at least 7-10 times during their working years. The world of work is more dynamic than ever and the skills of adaptability, curiosity, and resilience are essential in order to navigate this new (and constantly changing) economy as well as to develop personal growth. In this session, traditional thinking about a linear career planning process will be challenged and participants will gain awareness of a new framework for their career journey: happenstance learning theory. Through a combination of discussion, interactive exercises, and Road Trip Nation video stories, participants will be introduced to this theory's concepts and how these can be integrated into how they approach their career and leadership development.

Moving from Spectator to Participant: Contributing to local, national, global movements for change

Christie Navarro

Meeting Room 1

As leaders, we have a responsibility for others and the world around us. Effective leaders know what it means to be a part of something bigger than themselves. In addition, leaders recognize when and how to give of themselves for the benefit of the greater good. Through discussion, reflection, and small group activities, this workshop will help participants understand the meaning and behaviors of civic engagement, identify issues of concern that matter most to them, and explore avenues to pursue movements for change.

Professionalism Beyond the Gender Binary

Austin Tarumoto & Robun Huang

Meeting Room 2

This workshop will center the experiences of queer, non-binary, trans, agender, gender non-conforming, and genderqueer folx in the "professional" environment. We will be discussing various forms of oppression, such as genderism, cis-sexism, and heterosexism, and how they shape current ideas of what professionalism is. We will also discuss the ways in which these forms of oppression intersect with race, ability, and class. Our workshop focuses on how professionalism has created a set of unhealthy norms of gender expression that are exhibited in dress codes, productivity, bathrooms, personality, and emotionality. After unpacking the toxic roots of professionalism and its contributions in further perpetuating gender and sexuality based discrimination and violence in the workplace, we will explore meaningful ways we can interrupt this form of oppression.

Reflection: Turning Reflection into Action

Corrine Hawes

Meeting Room 3

Everyone came to this conference today with a goal. Now that you've attended two sessions about self and others, attend this session for the opportunity to reflect on what you learned, engage with other conference participants on their learning, and create an action plan of how to apply the information to a context of your choosing. Students will also examine work environment culture and how that may impact their action plan.

PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES

Jamie Allen

Student Activities Coordinator
Center for Student Involvement

Jaime Allen is a Student Activities Coordinator at the Center for Student Involvement here at UC Davis. In this role she advises international, academic, honorary, and performance based student organizations as they work to make their ideas and dreams happen. Previously, Jaime worked at the University of Southern California while earning her Masters of Education in Postsecondary Administration. Jaime became the first in her family to graduate from college when she attended UC Irvine. When not at work, Jaime is probably listening to a podcast and always open to listen to one you recommend.

Maria Bundang

Undergraduate Student – Psychology Major and Education Minor
UC Davis Student Housing

Maria Bundang is currently a third year psychology major with a minor in education. Maria has been working for student housing for two years. Her goal is to go into counseling or developmental psychology. One day, Maria hopes to become a professor.

Annie Chen, Michelle Rivera, Funke Aderonmu, Maureen Njuguna & Marlene Amador

Undergraduate Students
American Association of University Women at UC Davis

AAUW at UC Davis is an on-campus student organization. Our mission is to advocate and support womxn's advancement through the college campus and beyond in fundamental educational, economic, societal, and political issues.

Dillan Christensen

Undergraduate Student – Aerospace Sciences and Engineering Major
UC Davis Student Housing

Dillan Christensen is a third year Aerospace Sciences and Engineering major at UC Davis. Someday he hopes to work for an aerospace company designing aircraft or spacecraft or working on rocket propulsion. Dillan lives in the San Fernando Valley which is right above Los Angeles. He is a huge fan of beaches and sunny weather. Dillan is also a Resident Advisor for UC Davis Student Housing and this is his second year doing so. His is also a Peer Mentor for First Year Aggie Connections on campus that is focused on connecting first year students to campus as well as to one another. Dillan loves to build new friendships and learn from all the experiences others go through. One fun fact about him is that he has dual citizenship.

Kristin Dees

Director
Center for Student Involvement

Dr. Kristin Dees is the Director of the Center for Student Involvement at UC Davis. Her responsibilities include administrative oversight, support and liaison with other campus departments. Center for Student Involvement provides leadership consultation and training for registered student organizations, and large scale programs. Kristin's passion and research area is leadership development and mentorship in first-generation students. Kristin received her Bachelor's Degree from Texas Christian University, her Master's Degree in Education specializing in College Student Services Administration from Oregon State University, and her Doctorate in Education Leadership from California Lutheran University.

PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES

Kristopher Disharoon

Service Learning Leadership Specialist/Analyst, Pioneers for Change
CSU East Bay Center for Community Engagement

My name is Kristopher Chad Disharoon and I received my BA in Film Studies from Western Carolina University and my MS in Higher Education Administration from Radford University. Most of my work has been in Housing and Residence Life and Student Activities. My areas of interest are student leadership, student engagement, and social justice work. A fun fact about me is that I love Spider-Man.

Nicole Fernandez

Undergraduate Student – Animal Science Major
Aggie Ambassador
College of Agricultural & Environmental Sciences

Nicole Fernandez is the Outreach Coordinator for Aggie Ambassadors and a third year Animal Science major who is actively involved at the UCD Pastured Poultry Farm. Aggie Ambassadors is a student leadership organization through the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences that provides students with the opportunity to develop communication and leadership skills by participating in student panels, college workshops, and conducting tours around campus.

Leah Galasso

Residential Education Coordinator
UC Davis Student Housing

Leah Galasso is a Residential Education Coordinator with UC Davis Student Housing. In this role, Leah assists first-year students in their transition to campus, through 1:1 advising, workshops, and large-scale programs. Prior to joining the Davis Community, Leah worked at George Washington University while earning her master's degree in Higher Education Administration. When not at work Leah enjoys spending time outdoors, hiking, swimming, and practicing yoga. She also loves finding new shows to watch on Netflix, and now that The Gilmore Girls revival is over, she is looking for something else to watch. If you have any suggestions, let her know!

Corrine Hawes

Student Leadership Program Coordinator
College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences

Originally from Connecticut, Corrine Hawes went to University of Rhode Island for a bachelor's degree in Communications with a minor in leadership. She really wanted to do broadcasting and become a superstar but then was distracted by Student Affairs after her experience as an orientation leader. This experience led Corrine to serving as an AmeriCorps*VISTA for one year and then attending the University of Connecticut for her masters in Higher Education and Student Affairs. While at UConn, Corrine's graduate assistantship was in First Year Programs and Learning Communities. She has always been drawn to the field of leadership which led to her next position as a Leadership Coach in the Leadership and Service Center at the University of South Carolina. Her primary role was to provide leadership development to student employees both on and off campus. Corrine came to UC Davis in 2015 to work peer advising in Student Housing, and transitioned into her current role as Student Leadership Program Coordinator in the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences in July of 2016.

Robun Huang

Co-President; Undergraduate Student – Design Major
and Asian-American Studies Minor
Asian/Pacific-Islander Queers

Robun (they/them) is an Indonesian-Chinese queer second-year Design major, Asian-American Studies minor attending UC Davis. They are actively serving as the Co-President of Asian/Pacific-Islander Queers and is interested in empowering marginalized POC and queer voices.

PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES

Jenine S. Jenkins

Consultant, Business Coach, Public Speaker
J. Smith & Co.

A graduate of Kent State University, Jenine is an HR Professional with over 13 years of on the experience. Currently a Consultant, Business Coach and public speaker, she has worked her way up in the Human Resources field starting out as an HR Administrative Assistant working her way up to ultimately lead HR Teams in local Fortune 100 companies and Non-Profit organizations. In these positions she managed teams and worked with high level organizational leaders to create successful high performing teams. Mrs. Smith is no stranger to audiences as she has presented on topics such as interviewing skills, dressing for an interview on a budget, active listening and other pertinent leadership and personal development topics. Her approachable style combined with her expertise as an HR Professional and her understanding of human nature, allows her to connect authentically to any audience. Jenine is also the founder of J. Smith & Company, a woman owned small business. Based in Sacramento, CA, J. Smith & Co can most accurately be defined as an “HR Concierge” providing services to small and medium sized organizations in all aspects of Human Resources. For fun, Jenine enjoys running and is currently training to run a marathon later this year!

Deborah Kagan

Undergraduate Student – Communication Major
UC Davis Student Housing

Deborah Kagan is currently a second year communication major. She also works for student housing as a resident advisor. Her goal is to become an attorney. A fun fact about Deborah is that she is a huge San Francisco Giants fan.

Odisea Macias

Undergraduate Student – Communication Major and Managerial Economics Minor

Odisea Macias is a senior Communication major and Managerial Economics minor. After graduation, wants to pursue a MBA at the UC Davis School of Management. Odisea is passionate about public speaking and wants to become a motivational speaker. She will one day give a TED Talk.

Zach McLaughlin

Undergraduate Student – Biopsychology Major and Coaching Principles Minor

Zach McLaughlin is a third year Biopsych major with a minor in Coaching Principles. This is his second year being an RA for Student Housing and he loves working in the department. He has also been working closely with First Year Aggie Connections as a Peer Mentor. After Davis, Zach plans on going on to grad school to get a Doctorate in Physical Therapy and afterward plans on working with athletes/those working in law enforcement. When he is not at school or work, he is generally running, hanging out with friends or spending time in the Arboretum. Fun fact about Zach: every summer my friends and I get together to go down to Santa Cruz and camp down there for a week. It is a tradition we all look forward to year round!

Christie Navarro

Director
Center for Leadership Learning

Christie Navarro is the Director for the Center for Leadership Learning. Christie is very passionate about leadership education and the evolving discipline of leadership studies. Prior to her tenure at UC Davis, Christie served as the California state representative for the college admission testing organization ACT, served as a regional outreach coordinator for UC Merced Early Academic Outreach Program, and served as a case manager for Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Tulare County. Christie earned her Bachelor of Science in Psychology and Master of Arts in Higher Educational Leadership from California State University, Sacramento. In addition to leadership, Christie is also very passionate about civic engagement, social justice, and developing a global mindset. She is an avid traveler and enjoys learning about other countries and their culture.

PRESENTER BIOGRAPHIES

Tessa Oates

Trained Moderator; Undergraduate Student – Religious Studies Major and Human Rights Minor
Sustained Dialogue at UC Davis

I am a second year student studying Religion and Human Rights and hoping to pursue a graduate degree in Educational Leadership. As a trained moderator and an officer for the Sustained Dialogue student organization, I'm particularly interested in exploring how Dialogue and other thoughtfully constructed communication spaces can allow humans to better listen to, think about, and understand other people's perspectives and life experiences. I'm especially fascinated by the way storytelling about personal experiences can create a shared feeling of trust and compassion among a group. Some other topics that interest me include nonviolent communication and thought, self-appreciation and mental wellness, and conflict resolution techniques.

Marlene Piceno

Undergraduate Student – Textiles and Clothing Major
Aggie Ambassador
College of Agricultural & Environmental Sciences

Marlene Piceno is the Workshops Coordinator for Aggie Ambassadors and a fourth year Textiles and Clothing major. Aggie Ambassadors is a student leadership organization through the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences that provides students with the opportunity to develop communication and leadership skills by participating in student panels, college workshops, and conducting tours around campus.

Kelli Sholer

Undergraduate Advisor
Anthropology and Sociology

Kelli Sholer, M.S is currently an undergraduate advisor at UC Davis in the Anthropology and Sociology departments and has 8 years of academic advising experience at UC Davis. She received her Master's degree in Counseling with a specialization in career counseling and generally uses approaches such as happenstance learning theory or integrative life planning in her work with students. She has specific enthusiasm for helping students navigate through their career exploration process and facilitates a 2 unit course that helps students reflect on their career development process. Kelli embraces self-care through going to musicals, concerts, and trying new restaurants with her husband.

Austin Tarumoto

Organizer; Undergraduate Student – Global Disease Biology Major
Asian/Pacific-Islander Queers

Austin is a queer, genderqueer Pilipinx and Japanese femme student. Austin uses they/them/theirs and he/him/ his pronouns. They are studying Global Disease Biology and Community Development. They are currently one of the organizers for Asian and/or Pacific Islander Queers at UC Davis and a peer educator with the Cross Cultural Center.

Caitrin Vadnais

Aggie Ambassador; Undergraduate Student – Animal Science Major and Education Minor
College of Agricultural & Environmental Sciences

Caitrin Vadnais is a fourth year Animal Science major with a minor in Education, the President of Aggie Ambassadors and a peer advisor at the CA&ES Dean's office. Aggie Ambassadors is a student leadership organization through the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences that provides students with the opportunity to develop communication and leadership skills by participating in student panels, college workshops, and conducting tours around campus.

Ruby Victoria

Undergraduate Student – Animal Science Major
Aggie Ambassador
College of Agricultural & Environmental Sciences

Ruby Victoria is the Vice President of Aggie Ambassadors and a fourth year Animal Science major. Aggie Ambassadors is a student leadership organization through the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences that provides students with the opportunity to develop communication and leadership skills by participating in student panels, college workshops, and conducting tours around campus.

NOTES

NOTES

UC DAVIS

CENTER FOR LEADERSHIP LEARNING

QUARTERLY
WORKSHOPS

CERTIFICATE
PROGRAMS

SPECIAL EVENTS

LEADERSHIP
COACHING

1350 The Grove
Davis, CA 95616

Monday - Thursday: 10AM - 5PM
Friday: By Appointment Only

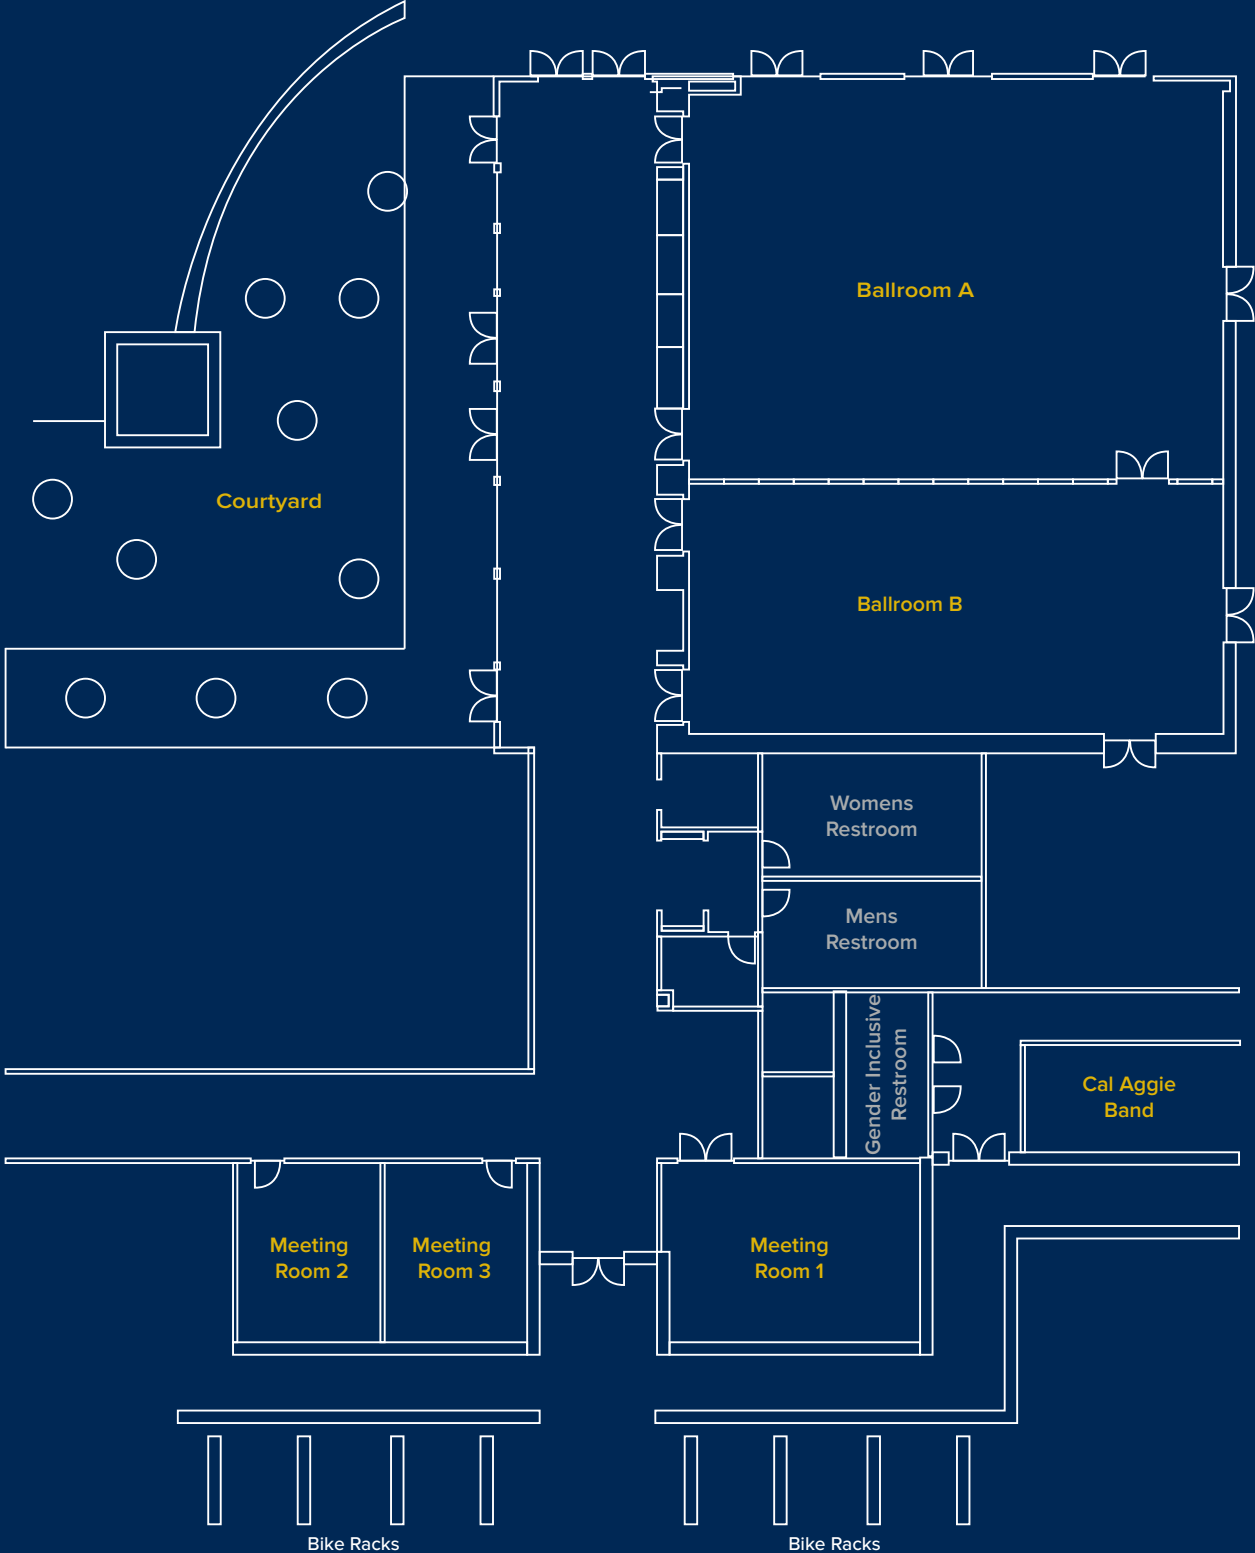

Website
cll.ucdavis.edu

Learn to Lead
Lead with Purpose

UC DAVIS

UNDERGRADUATE EDUCATION

ARC CONFERENCE CENTER LAYOUT

Restroom Locations

Gender Inclusive

From Ballroom A, make a left and walk through main doors. Turn left and left again toward the Cal Aggie Band Room.

Gender Specific

From Ballroom A, make a left into the hallway. Restrooms located to the left.

This conference is funded and made possible by the Center for Leadership Learning and Undergraduate Education

Thank you for your generous promotional donations:

College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences
College of Biological Sciences
College of Engineering
College of Letters and Science

Thank you to the 2017 conference planning committee for their dedication and hard work

Erin Blobaum
Center for Leadership
Learning

Melissa Cruz
UC Davis Arboretum and
Public Garden

Kristin Dees
Center for Student Involvement

Isabel Duenas
Campus Recreation and Unions

Corrine Hawes
College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences

Christie Navarro
Center for Leadership
Learning

Jeanette Plascencia
Student Academic Success Center -
Educational Opportunity Program